

You have the pleasure of looking at an electrical engineer. My Bachelor of Engineering degree was earned from automation and system control; the title of my final theme was: “Computer Networks - The practical application of IPSec, Secure Data Transfer Protocol.”

My inquisitive nature, good language skills, a background as an IT technician and the extensive knowledge of the working principles of a PC, computers in general and networking helped me to form a solid base on which I can build upon.

Most of my freelance work has been done through the internet and I have been doing it for over two years. Over this time period I have translated about 200 000 source words.

Life and education in a bilingual environment has provided me with the benefit of learning two languages (Hungarian, Serbian) at a native level.

Born into a cyber age and growing up with a computer has taught me how to manage and maintain a small office from home.

For building up translation memories and glossaries I have chosen Wordfast as a CAT tool.

I see myself in this world as a person who helps two parties to understand each other. I have dedicated my life to fulfilling this goal.
