Brief description of career as a translator

After having attended Teacher's College in Utrecht (Netherlands) I emigrated to Australia in 1961.

There I worked for General Motors for 14 years in the Production and Finance Departments.

In the meantime, I completed a 4 years' Personnel Administration (Management) course at the Sydney Technical College in 1968.

In 1975 I returned to The Netherlands.

While combining jobs in finance (controlling) with studies I completed an English language course at The Hague School for Language and Literature graduating for High School teachership in 1979 where the art of translation was emphasized.

Since then I have done translation jobs on a professional and freelance basis - now for 30 years. This practice has given me extremely broad experience on the translation scene.

For many years I have been a sworn translator to the Rotterdam District Court. Due to a newly passed law concerning sworn translators and new requirements therefor I am now on the short list of active translators for the Netherlands Public Prosecutor's Office.

My sworn translations feature the below stamp:
